PROBLEM STATEMENT

Many students and beginners in web development lack a simple, clean, and structured way to showcase their skills, projects, and personal information online. This project addresses the need for a beginner-friendly personal webpage that is both accessible and visually appealing.

PROJECT OVERVIEW

■ This webpage provides a concise introduction to myself, including my background, technical skills, and contact information. It uses semantic HTML for structure, CSS for minimal styling, and ensures accessibility for all users. The page is responsive, ensuring it displays well on both desktop and mobile devices.

WHO ARE THE END USERS?

Potential employers or recruiters
College peers or faculty
Anyone interested in exploring
Hemalatha web development skills

TOOLS AND TECHNIQUES

HTML - Semantic structure, headings, sections, lists

CSS - Styling, responsive design, color variables

Web Browser - For testing and viewing the webpage

Text Editor/IDE - VS Code, Sublime, or similar for coding

Optional: Canva or Adobe Express for profile images and graphics

POTFOLIO DESIGN AND LAYOUT

Clean, minimal design with clear sections
(header, section, footer).

Semantic HTML is well used (<header>, <section>, <footer>).

Use of CSS variables for colors makes styling consistent.

FEATURES AND FUNCTIONALITY

Focus styles for links improve keyboard navigation.

Clear, readable color contrast.

Responsive layout for mobile devices.

Ordered list of technical skills.
